SENATORS GIVE UP THANKS FOR PEACE IN U. S.

"We Still Say What We Think And Please," Clark Points Out To Nation

NO LOCAL BOMB FEARS

Hattie Caraway Joins With All Mothers Praising God Sons Are Safe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Two senate veterans, Borah and Norris, gave thanks today for the blessings of United States democracy.

Senator Borah (R) Idaho, observed:

"I am thankful, very thankful, that reports show there are fewer hungry families on this Thanksgiving Day than there were last Thanksgiving I-ry."

"I am also thankful that there seems to be an ever-increasing demand for peace among the people, the masses, in the warring nations of Europe. It is from that source peace will most likely come."

Senator Norris (IR) Nebraska, said:

"The great thing to be thankful for is that the United States Congress, insofar as possible, decided that we will stay out of the World War now going on in Europe."

Dictators Opposed

"Congress has shown that we have no sympathy with dictators or dictatorial governments, and that we do not want to assist directly or indirectly, the policies of Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini and Japan."

Senator Hattie Caraway, (D) Arkansas, the only woman member of the senate, said:

"We should be more thankful this Thanksgiving period, it seems to me, than ever before in our history. As an American mother I join with the other mothers of our nation in breathing a prayer of thankfulness that our sons are not being offered up for cannon fodder."

Mrs. Caraway has two sons in the army.

"We are thankful," said Senator Ed C. Johnson (D) Colorado, "that the United States, the great peace-loving democracy, is demonstrating to the world that war does not pay."

Defend Rights

"We should take pause at Thanksgiving to enter upon a firm resolve that our really vital rights and privileges shall never be destroyed. We are the only great nation on earth which today enjoys freedom of speech and expression. The press of most of the world is muzzled and censored, and its people are kept in almost medieval darkness as to the true state of affairs. Here, we can still say what we think and speak as we please."

"The American people," said Senator King (D) Utah, "should be thankful that this American republic stands as a symbol of those qualities and achievements which make it the leader among all civilized nations. We should be thankful to God from whose hands all our blessings flow."

Funds From Million Dollar Night To Help Provide Christmas Treat

Howard Hall Post, American Legion, voted Wednesday night to cooperate to the fullest extent with merchants and businessmen on the community Christmas program.

Legionnaires voted to contribute funds from Million Dollar Night to be held on December 1 to the Christmas program. A part of the Christmas program will include the annual treat for kiddies at the community tree conducted by the legion.

A committee consisting of James Shea and Bryan Custer was appointed to determine whether the organization will be granted the privilege of using the armory for a rifle range. The Legion would operate the range for the use of citizens, Boy Scouts and legionnaires.

Lincoln's Grandchild Bows to Will of F. D. R. On Changed Holiday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—The gray-haired Washington women whose forebearers were responsible for establishment of a national Thanksgiving Day 79 years ago, today bowed to President Roosevelt's proclamation and observed the traditional holiday a week in advance.

They were Mrs. Jesse Lincoln Randolph, only surviving grandchild of the President who originally proclaimed Thanksgiving Day nationally—Abraham Lincoln; and Miss Susan Hale, granddaughter of Sara Josepha Hale, who persuaded Lincoln that the last Thursday in November should be set aside annually for national thanks.

But Miss Hale will not flaunt her "heritage" completely. Next Thursday—the day that Lincoln and her grandmother chose—she will eat a second turkey dinner.

Mrs. Randolph, on the other hand, decided that she would join with Mr. Roosevelt and that half of the nation which accepted the blandishments of certain business groups for advancement of the date one week.

(Editor's note—Lincoln's proclamation of a national Thanksgiving Day was conceived by Mrs. Hale, according to historians, because of the confusions created by the different dates on which the several states celebrated.)

Beyond the simple statement that "I am eating my turkey today," Mrs. Randolph declined to comment, but Miss Hale was ready to defend her position.

"As long as the people are thankful and America is at peace in a troubled world, I am willing to celebrate today," she said. "But I am insisting also on remembering the day my grandmother wanted for national thanks and am eating another turkey with my friends next week."

Before Mrs. Sara Josepha Hale called on President Lincoln at the White House, Thanksgiving had been celebrated on different days in different states. Dark days were on America in the Civil War then, but with an unflinching confidence in the future of her country, Mrs. Hale persuaded Lincoln to set aside the last Thursday in November to commemorate the landing of the Pilgrims.

The President acceded to her request, and since then, until this year, the states and territories celebrated on the same day.

PROGRAM LASTS ALL DAY

Floats, Costumed Characters, Four Bands Will Be Parade Features

Additional plans for the big Christmas celebration in Circleville on December 2 were made Wednesday at a meeting of members of the Chamber of Commerce and Retail Merchants Association.

The elaborate Santa Claus Parade will be held at 1 p. m. It will form at the Circleville High School and wind through the downtown district. The parade will include Santa and his reindeer, a Christmas Queen and attendants, nine floats, 150 costumed marchers, cowboys, cowgirls, dogs, ponies, horses and sheep.

Miss Jane Metzger, Circleville High School's representative in the Pumpkin Show beauty contest, will be the Christmas queen.

Four Bands To Play

Dan McClain, director of the Pumpkin Show parades, and appointed chairman for the Christmas parade, announced he hopes to have four musical organizations for the pageant, the Circleville High School band, VFW band, American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps and the Stoutsville Band.

Santa Claus will arrive in Circleville on the morning of December 2 and remain all day. Following the parade he will go to his headquarters to be placed in front of the courthouse.

Decorations for the Christmas season will include the arbor effect at Court and Main Streets and sidewalk trees. Plans are to have the decorations go up next week.

SPRINGS POOL READIES F. D. R. FOR CARVING

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 23—A final brisk workout in the Warm Springs swimming pool today put President Roosevelt in tip-top condition for his annual exhibition of turkey carving.

Twenty-two patients of this noted infirmity paralysis resort engaged in a furious last-minute rehearsal of the skit they will present tonight as their contribution to the President's Thanksgiving Day festivities being held in twenty-two of the nation's forty-eight states.

Sixty-eight other patients stood by, together with several hundred relatives and guests, to join in the fun at tonight's dinner over which the President and Mrs. Roosevelt will preside as usual.

Warm Springs, with its most distinguished adopted son back home, was distinctly in a holiday mood, even though half of the country was waiting for next Thursday to observe Thanksgiving. Turkey and all the fixins' were on the menu, with the President, scheduled to carve for the head table where ten patients selected by draw will sit.

STUNT COWHAND DIES AS TRAIN STRIKES TRUCK

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Nov. 23—George Nelson, 29, stunt cowboy for Warner Brothers Film Company, died today from injuries suffered when a truck in which he was riding was struck by a freight train a mile out of town.

Another cowboy stunt rider, George Williams, 30, was critically injured in the crash.

The tragedy spoiled the holiday gaiety of the movie company, which included such stars as Errol Flynn, Miriam Hopkins, Big Boy Williams and Humphrey Bogart. The players had just completed shooting scenes of "Virginia City" and were on their way back to Hollywood.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—The Supreme Court, which has steadily veered toward the liberal side of judicial rule in the last three years, today appeared headed toward a virtual rewriting of many precedents built up during the 150 years of court history.

Influence of appointees of President Roosevelt, already felt on close decisions in the past three years, now has become the dominating force of the tribunal.

Justices named by Mr. Roosevelt now number half of the court. When the president names a justice to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Pierce Butler, a majority of the five justices will have been named by him—presumably chosen because of their attitude in constitutional interpretation.

RIDICULE HEAPED ON SPIES

British Agents Conceited And Foolish Declares Chief Of Nazi Gestapo

BERLIN, Nov. 23—With such epithets as "conceited and foolish" and "honest but stupid," Germany heaped ridicule upon the British intelligence service today and claimed that the Nazi Gestapo duped British secret agents for 21 days.

Henrich Himmler, chief of the gestapo (German secret police), announced that after 21 days of fooling the London headquarters of the British intelligence service, gestapo agents finally broke off direct radio communications with the heart of the British secret service.

In addition, Himmler revealed, the German agents ended the 21-day contact with this "sardonic message:

"Conversation with conceited and foolish people become annoying in the long run. You understand me now. I break off with the heartiest greetings of the German gestapo."

Listen In On Secrets

Even stranger than this fantastic chapter of the war was the German claim that the radio operators in London, as late as 10:10 o'clock last night, apparently were still unaware that anything was amiss with their radio contact, despite yesterday's revelations which followed the arrest of two purported British secret agents on the Dutch-German border.

"The London operators on this radio connection," said Himmler, "appeared still unaware of the true situation when the gestapo signed off he named the British radio operators as men known as Walsh and Mann."

According to the German claim, the British radio operators, even after being called "conceited and foolish" and receiving the "heartiest greetings of the German gestapo," wireless back "honestly but stupidly" the usual formal receipt of the German message.

According to the gestapo, the radio contact was obtained when the headquarters of the British intelligence service at The Hague, Holland, sought to foment revolt in Germany.

British Tricked

The British agents were said to have been tricked into believing that gestapo agents were members of an anti-Hitler revolutionary German organization. The British thereupon provided the Germans with radio equipment by means of which the radio contact was maintained for 21 days with London.

TAX BODY SEEKS PEEK AT INCOME REPORTS TO U. S.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 23—In what was believed to be the first step of its kind in the country, city officials of Newark today sought permission from the federal government to inspect all Newark personal income tax returns in an attempt to find new sources of revenue.

An inspection of the income tax returns, explained Finance Commissioner Vincent J. Murphy, was expected to reveal securities and other personal property on which a million dollars in local taxes could be levied.

The city commission requested Gov. A. Harry Moore to ask President Roosevelt for permission to inspect the tax books under a provision of the federal laws providing for cooperation with municipal authorities.

The commission also voted to add almost $200,000,000 to the 1938 tax valuations of 10 large corporations from whom it will then seek compromise cash settlements.

TAKE YOUR PICK OF REPORTS ON AERIAL ACTIVITY

PARIS, Nov. 23—Six German military planes were brought down yesterday by French pursuit craft and anti-aircraft batteries, according to French war communiqué No. 161 today.

"It was a fairly quiet night at the front," the statement said. "There was artillery fire at various points."

"During the day of Nov. 22 we brought down five enemy fighters on our territory. Moreover, a German reconnaissance aircraft, attacked by our fighters, fell on Belgian territory."

BERLIN, Nov. 22—Destruction of six Allied warplanes was announced in an official communique by the German high command today.

The bulletin also claimed that yesterday's reconnaissance flights over France and England produced valuable results. The communique stated:

"A French company's attack against our outposts southwest of Pirmasens was repulsed with heavy losses."

"The German air force obtained the most valuable results from reconnoitering flights over France and England despite strong enemy anti-aircraft and chaser activity."

British Tricked

The British agents were said to have been tricked into believing that Gestapo agents were members of an anti-Nazi revolutionary German organization. The British thereupon provided the Germans with radio equipment by means of which the radio contact was maintained for 21 days with London.

TAX BODY SEEKS PEEK AT INCOME REPORTS TO U. S.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 23—In what was believed to be the first step of its kind in the country, city officials of Newark today sought permission from the federal government to inspect all Newark personal income tax returns in an attempt to find new sources of revenue.

An inspection of the income tax returns, explained Finance Commissioner Vincent J. Murphy, was expected to reveal securities and other personal property on which a million dollars in local taxes could be levied.

The city commission requested Gov. A. Harry Moore to ask President Roosevelt for permission to inspect the tax books under a provision of the federal laws providing for cooperation with municipal authorities.

The commission also voted to add almost $200,000,000 to the 1938 tax valuations of 10 large corporations from whom it will then seek compromise cash settlements.

SIMON RAPS GERMANS

Rules Of War Violated By Indiscriminate Planting Of Explosives In Sea

LONDON, Nov. 23—Confidence that the Anglo-French Allies will defeat Germany was expressed by King George VI today in his speech proroguing the British parliament.

The monarch declared that Great Britain could not have avoided taking up the German challenge without dishonoring herself.

"We seek no material gain," said King George. "We are resolved to preserve liberty and free institutions."

"My people have dedicated themselves to the struggle... we cannot doubt that our cause will prevail."

Two more vessels—the Greek freighter Elena R and the $1,500,000 British destroyer Gipsy—rested on the bottom of the sea off the eastern coast of England today after striking mines which Great Britain officially described as the "latest abomination of German savagery."

The Gipsy went down with a possible loss of 40 lives, while 21 of her crew were injured. The destroyer struck a mine almost at the same time that Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon, in a radio broadcast to the British nation, declared:

TAKE YOUR PICK OF REPORTS ON AERIAL ACTIVITY

PARIS, Nov. 23—Six German military planes were brought down yesterday by French pursuit craft and anti-aircraft batteries, according to French war communication No. 161 today.

"It was a fairly quiet night at the front," the statement said. "There was artillery fire at various points."

"During the day of Nov. 22 we brought down five enemy fighters on our territory. Moreover, a German reconnaissance aircraft, attacked by our fighters, fell on Belgian territory."

BERLIN, Nov. 22—Destruction of six Allied warplanes was announced in an official communiqué by the German high command today.

The bulletin also claimed that yesterday's reconnaissance flights over France and England produced valuable results. The communiqué stated:

"A French company's attack against our outposts southwest of Pirmasens was repulsed with heavy losses."

"The German air force obtained the most valuable results from reconnaissance flights over France and England despite strong enemy anti-aircraft and chaser activity."

1700 KILLED IN CZECH RISING AGAINST NAZIS

LONDON, Nov. 23—A Reuters (British) news agency dispatch from Budapest said today that, according to reports from Prague, 1,700 Czechs have been killed to date as a result of anti-German demonstrations.

NEW DRIVE FOR M'NUTT IN 1940 BEING PLANNED

National Committeeman To Continue His Journeys Through Nation

McHALE HAS BIG ROLE

Wide Support Claimed As Former Governor Takes Offensive Position

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 23.—Reminiscent of the effective tour of James A. Farley in behalf of President Roosevelt just before the 1932 national convention, Frank M. McHale, Indiana national committeeman, soon will take to the road again in behalf of the presidential candidacy of Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security Administrator.

McHale already has visited 24 states of the Northwest, West and Midwest, and his new trip will take him to Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and perhaps other southern states.

These visits are not sight-seeing expeditions. They are journeys to see the practical politicians who get together and make or destroy the chances of presidential hopefuls. Ranking Democratic officials have been contacted in every state, including national committeemen and women, state chairmen, governors, congressmen, senators and state, county and city officials.

Will Not Oppose F. D. R.

Discussing the past excursion, McHale said: "We did not seek instructed delegations and did not put anyone on the spot. Our case was simple enough when we explained it to the many meetings we attended and to the hundreds of persons interviewed. We told our audiences and our interviewers that the candidacy of Paul V. McNutt was predicated on the theory that the President will not become a candidate.

"It is surprising how much knowledge these people in the West and Northwest have of McNutt's record; that is, his record as governor of Indiana from 1933 to 1937, and of his successful advocacy of Indiana's gross income tax.

"Continually we found old and new McNutt adherents who believe the year 1940 is no time for the Democrats to wind up their convention in discord, and believe that McNutt is the ideal man to solidify all the forces of the party and bring them into harmony for the campaign."

Claims Wide Support

Of the 24 states visited, McNutt will garner at least 80 percent of 19 state delegations to the national convention, McHale optimistically predicted. He said that four of the states visited will have favorite son candidates, but that McNutt has excellent second-choice possibilities in them. In another state, he said, sentiment was about 55 percent for another candidate and about 45 percent for McNutt.

The McNutt men believe that a decision on whether President Roosevelt will seek a third term may come in January. Word has been received at McNutt headquarters that the Democratic central committee of the state of Washington plans to call a presidential preferential convention early in January and to elect delegates pledged to a third term for the President.

If the President is out of the new McNutt race, he will inform his vigorous Pacific Coast supporters soon after they vote the endorsement, according to the viewpoint of the McNutt lieutenants.

The first test of the popular strength of the McNutt movement may arrive in March when the first presidential preferential primary will be held in New Hampshire. The McNutt men, however, say confidentially that Postmaster General James A. Farley has the inside track in that state, if he cares to take the presidential trail.

April a Crucial Month

April will be a crucial month for the McNutt hopes, inasmuch as five states will hold primaries bearing on the presidential situation. They are Massachusetts, Nebraska, New York, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin.

MYSTERY SOLVED

During rehearsals of a very emotional episode of "The Life and Love of Dr. Susan", engineers noticed a jangling sound every time Dorothy Knox, who plays the part of Frieda, emotes before the microphone. Believing the mike to be faulty on one side, they borrowed another from the next studio, but still the tinkling sound continued. Finally Eleanor Phelps, playing opposite Miss Knox in the title role, noticed that with each emotional gesture "Frieda's" costume jewelry bracelet and necklace jangled as she waved her hands.

JEAN ARTHUR

Jean Arthur, one of Hollywood's advanced cases of "microphone fright," has notified Cecil B. DeMille that she has been completely cured. On previous Radio Theatre broadcasts, Jean has been so nervous it has been necessary for DeMille to provide her with a comfortable chair on the stage and a table microphone. She told DeMille this setup would not be necessary on her next Radio

Theatre broadcast, "Pygmalion," with Brian Aherne, on November 27.

CHARLIE MCCARTHY

The wooden-faced Charlie McCarthy is burning up since he learned that Edgar Bergen is toying with the idea of introducing Loretta Young to Mortimer Snerd on Sunday with not even a polite brush aside for him. Charlie has written Loretta a letter asking her, if only for their friendship's sake, to demand the real McCarthy.

Rudy Vallee, in his role as host of the variety hour over the NBC red network at 8 p.m., will introduce Vera Vague, comedienne, with the regular company which is made up of Edgar Bergen and assistants, Donald Dickson, Dorothy Lamour, and Robert Armstrong's orchestra.

No one was more surprised at the way Vera Vague caught on with radio listeners than Barbara Jo Allen, the young actress who portrays the crotchety old spinster-type.

The glamorous and beautiful Loretta Young is a radio producer's dream-actress. Her voice is perfectly suited to the microphone as she will illustrate in a playlet she'll enact.

Vocals by Donald Dickson, air-minded young baritone of Metropolitan fame; Rudy Vallee, who's hitting those high-notes once more; and Dorothy Lamour, who has had a special gleam in her eye since Mortimer Snerd came on the program; will be the music

FRANCE PLANS YEARS AHEAD FOR WORLD WAR

Aviation Agent Started With American Plane Factories Back In 1934

PROPER SHIPS ASSURED

First Action Taken By Paris When Socialist Unions Slow Production

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 — France, foreseeing the conflict that has engulfed Europe, for five years had an agent working with American aircraft manufacturers in order to be assured of receiving the type and number of fighting planes she would need when war came.

The agent was Comdr. Norbert Champsaur, former air attaché at the French embassy. Beginning in 1934, Champsaur spent practically all his working hours in leading aircraft manufacturing plants. An engineer and a pilot, he visited the factories and saw what kind of airplanes America was building.

Then he described the kind of airplanes France felt it would need, and how they should be constructed. Out of many conferences came plans for building France the kind and number of planes it wanted. A close friend of the French pilot-engineer, in disclosing the story today, explained that when Champsaur began the work, French aircraft production had been reduced by conflict between the air ministry and the labor unions to about 50 airplanes a month.

"Socialist labor unions," he said, "controlled the airplane factories. The workers spent most of their time cultivating their garden plots outside the factories, and very little time building airplanes. "Labor union leaders even went to the air ministry and attempted to dictate how many planes, and what kind of planes, should be built."

Champsaur's friend, a government official, said that now, with a strong nationalistic spirit engendered by the war, France "is building airplanes and good ones." Meanwhile, two of the aircraft factories in which Champsaur spent many months are expanding their plants with French and British funds so they can turn out planes and engines more quickly for the allies. It has been reported that France is putting up from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 for this expansion.

GULPS TOOTHBRUSH

JERSEY CITY, N. J. — His fifteen-month-old baby said "Daddy" when Joseph C. Fayder was brushing his teeth and the proud father was so excited he swallowed the toothbrush. Fayder was taken to the Jersey City Medical Center where his condition was reported as not serious.

HYMNS BOTHER TAVERN

DALLAS, Tex. — What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, one Dallas saloon operator apparently believes. He called the district attorney's office to complain about noise from a nearby church. "Why, when they turn that darn loudspeaker on and sing all those hymns, my customers can't hear the music from the nickelodeon." Although protests from churches have caused saloons to be placed on several Dallas taverns, the district attorney's office said it couldn't do anything about the reverse situation.

Rope Rescue Down Five Stories

FIREMEN battling a blaze in a New York rooming house saw Harry Hatcher trapped on the fifth floor, his escape cut off by flames. Fireman John Mikulasovich was lowered by rope from the roof, grabbed Hatcher through a window and carried him to the ground, as shown.

Louise. Then, much embarrassed, he apologized profusely to General Pershing.

When Louise Atwill returned to Washington the other day, she lunched at the Supreme Court, and again she saw McReynolds.

"But this time," laughed Mrs. Atwill, "he looked at me as if he was surveying the devastated areas."

WAR ORDERS

Paul Van Zeeland, ex-Premier of Belgium, has been spreading some quiet words of caution regarding the amount of war orders to be expected—or rather not to be expected—from France and Great Britain.

Few people realize, he points out, how much the productive capacity of the Allies has increased. It is far greater than in 1914, and except for a few specialized products the Allies can produce most of what they need under their own steam.

Furthermore, Van Zeeland, emphasizes, the British are going to switch all war orders possible to Canada, in an attempt to build up its industry on a permanent basis, perhaps even with the idea of shifting much of the United Kingdom's industry to the Dominion where it will be safe from future wars.

Van Zeeland reports that Hitler's finances are worse than most people realize, and predicts that the war will be short. But his definition of "short" is two years.

NOTE—Van Zeeland has been visiting the United States as counsel for the International Refugee Conference.

COUGHLIN'S BROADCASTS

Father Coughlin's followers are flooding the Federal Communications Commission with protests against his "suppression" under the new National Association of Broadcasters code. This is giving FCC officials a big laugh.

They recall a previous flood of complaints from individuals who demanded time to answer the radio priest's fulminations, but were unable to buy it. Now the shoe is on the other foot.

Coughlin cannot buy time because of the controversial nature of his broadcasts, though, under the code, he is entitled to free time—on the condition that an equal period of free time be given to reply to him.

LANDON AND HOOVER

One Republican leader who is firmly convinced that Herbert Hoover is an active candidate for the 1940 nomination is Alf Landon.

At a private gathering of Iowa leaders following Alf's recent speech in Shenandoah, Ia., the politicians were sounding him out on the various candidates, and he remarked that Hoover had his hat in the ring. The leaders were amazed.

"He can't possibly be serious about it," one of them said. "Well, believe it or not, it's true," Landon replied. "He is not only serious but he thinks he has a very good chance to get the nomination. He's after delegates and quietly is doing a lot of campaigning."

NOTE—At an Armistice Day gathering in Topeka, Kas., Landon introduced Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, leading Democratic isolationist, as one of the most constructive and courageous members of Congress. Landon and Clark were on opposite sides in the neutrality fight, but Landon feels Clark displayed high courage in sticking by his views when he knew it would hurt his presidential chances.

POLITICAL GO-ROUND

Senator Burt Wheeler is certainly trying hard to woo Townsend backing for his presidential ambitions. Latest issue of the Townsend Weekly carried a three-column picture of Wheeler conferring at Townsend headquarters on "old-age pension plans on Capitol Hill for the coming year."

Senator Arthur Vandenberg has written friends in Nebraska asking for suggestions for a state manager for his Presidential campaign. The Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce has appointed a special committee of business men to bring both national conventions to the city next year. The Democrats met there in 1936. The plan of certain GOP insiders to control Corn Belt delegations by pledging them to Hanford McNider, ex-Assistant Secretary of War and Minister to Canada under Hoover, is getting nowhere fast. Local Republican leaders can't see the Iowa at all as a presidential white hope including those in his own State. One casualty in the last local elections was Mayor Dan Shields of Johnstown, Pa., whose strike-busting operations were probed by the LaFollette Civil Liberties Committee.

"WPA" VAN ZANDT

That bristling letter which Representative James E. Van Zandt of Altoona sent the White House, demanding that the wages of "poor, suffering" WPA workers be increased forthwith, was a remarkable demonstration for him to make.

Just a few months before, Van Zandt was showing no such solicitude for the relievers. On the contrary, he was one of the Republican ringleaders in the coalition which slashed the WPA budget.

In a rip-snorting speech on the House floor, Van Zandt shouted, "I say that WPA expenses must be cut down. I know whereof I speak when I say that the vast majority of my constituents are opposed to granting the full amount requested by Mr. Roosevelt."

Another peculiar angle about Van Zandt's letter is that he knows full well WPA wages cannot be fixed by the White House. They were set by Congress in the bill for which Van Zandt talked and voted.

Greek Freighter, British Destroyer Are Sent To Bottom

your newspaper of this latest abomination of German savagery, the magnetic mine, secretly deposited in channels of the sea to destroy innocent lives — women, children and unarmed men — in a breach of the rules of war, which Germany only two months ago expressly promised to obey."

Seventh Warship Sunk

The Gipsy was the seventh British warship lost since the war began. The sinking of the Greek freighter marked the destruction of the 19th vessel in waters surrounding the British Isles since Saturday, in addition to the Italian freighter Fianona, which was badly damaged by a mine but did not sink.

Other developments included a declaration that Holland and Belgium will lodge a joint protest with Britain against London's proposed seizure of German exports.

The Netherlands government charged that the British measure of retaliation against the Reich is in violation of Holland's ideas of neutrality. In addition, it threatened to withhold Dutch supplies from the British.

Italy Denies Barter

Another neutral nation, Italy, also stepped forward with a vehement denial of reports that she has agreed to furnish machinery and hemp to England in return for coal and jute.

The denial was described as Italy's "first and final" answer to rumors of Italian barter agreements favoring the Allies.

A French war communiqué stated that five German fighting planes were brought down yesterday on French territory while a sixth was shot down on Belgian territory. Along the Western Front, said this announcement, the night was "fairly quiet."

In Berlin, secret Police Chief Heinrich Himmler heaped ridicule upon the British intelligence service.

Only last night, said Himmler, did his Gestapo break off direct radio contact with the British intelligence headquarters in London after 21 days of duping the British into thinking they were communicating not with the Gestapo but with supposedly revolutionary elements in Germany.

According to Himmler, the closing Gestapo message to London took this form:

"Conversation with conceited, foolish people becomes annoying in the long run."

MRS. EVA STEVENS DIES AT BERGER HOSPITAL

PROBE STARTS IN TRAIN WRECK FATAL TO ONE

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—An investigation was under way today into the wreck of a fast North Western railroad passenger train which struck a handcar late yesterday as it approached North Chicago while enroute from Chicago to Menominee, Mich.

The engineer, Harry Anderson of Chicago, was killed. The fireman, Stanley Mack, was badly scalded. Both men were caught in the wreckage of the locomotive when it left the tracks and toppled down an embankment.

In addition to the locomotive, two baggage cars and two coaches bumped along the ties for about half a mile before coming to a stop.

All of the almost 200 passengers escaped injury, although several were severely shaken up.

Four section hands who had been riding the handcar were not hurt.

ASHVILLE THIEF HAS NO FEAR OF WINTRY BREEZES

A thief who appeared in Ashville Wednesday night has no fear of wintry winds. He stole a motorcycle and headed northward out of the village about 11:30.

The motorcycle, a 1938 model, is owned by Arthur and James Valentine of Ashville. The license number is MC 9855.

The motorcycle was stolen from a parking space near the village hall.

Members of the sheriff's department believed it was the first motorcycle theft ever reported in the county.

RIDICULE HEAPED ON SPIES

Henry Stevens, who were captured on the Dutch-German border at Venlo Nov. 9—the day following the bomb blast at Munich that nearly cost Chancellor Hitler's life—were the men who made the radio contact possible, Himmler said.

The newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, Hitler's organ, at the same time charged that Otto Strasser, accused by the Germans as the "spiritual author" of the bomb plot against Hitler, organized two previous bombing attempts, one at the 1936 Olympic games and another at the 1937 Nuremberg party congress.

Both plots were discovered, said the paper, and Strasser's agents were executed.

The newspaper also stated that a plot by Strasser to bomb Hitler and Premier Mussolini at Munich resulted in the arrest and execution of Helmut Hirsch despite intervention of the American government on grounds that Hirsch's father possessed an expired American passport.

In England, it was charged, Strasser contacted British intelligence officers and organized new plots which resulted in the Munich beer cellar blast.

CATTLE AND HOG PRICES DECLINE ON LOCAL MART

Both cattle and hog prices were lower Wednesday on the Circleville Livestock auction as compared with the previous week.

No choice cattle were run through the sale. Good steers and heifers ranged from $8 to $9. Medium to good were listed from $6.50 to $8.

Good to choice hogs sold from $5.85 to $5.90 as compared with $6.30 last week.

NO HOLIDAY FOR MEMBERS OF NATIONAL GUARD

Thursday has no holiday for 63 Circleville men who are members of the National Guard.

The 42 men from Circleville in the Service Battery, 136th Field Artillery, are in Athens providing the necessary supplies for about 800 guardsmen stationed there.

The two officers and 18 men in the Medical Detachment, Special Troops, 37th Division, are in the army at Ohio State University attending lectures and receiving instructions in first aid work.

Col. Harry D. Jackson of the 112th Medical Regiment, is stationed at the fairgrounds in Columbus.

The Circleville men left the city Wednesday to participate in a five-day training period ordered by the war department.

SAVED FUEL AND AVOIDED FOGGED WINDOWS THIS WAY

Home Owner In Indiana Made 35% Savings On Coal Bill By Using Storm Sash

Freedom from drafts, fogged windows and uneven temperature as well as a saving in his coal bill that last year amounted to 35.2 per cent were some of the reasons Fred F. Fletcher, 4110 Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind., installed storm sash on his seven room house.

"I am satisfied with the results," he says, "I am going to put storm sash in the large windows of my grocery store. I know it will save a lot there and the windows will be free of condensation. People can see in and I'll save on fuel, too."

Save money and get added comfort this winter by equipping your house with storm sash. The Circleville Lumber Co. will call and give you an estimate of the cost. They will also give you a fairly accurate idea of the savings which will result. Call today and learn how you can save money and get added comfort from storm sash in your home. You can finance the entire job through F. H. A. with no down payment.

MAYBE Baby Dumpling's as smart as his happy parents think he is; but he isn't smart enough to explain the lovely "shiner" with which he returned from his first day in school! That's Dagwood, his proud father, whispering an alibi in this scene from Columbia's "Blondie Brings Up Baby," which opens tomorrow at the Cliftona Theatre with Penny Singleton as Blondie; Larry Simms, as Baby Dumpling, and Arthur Lake as Dagwood. Daisy, the Bumstead family pooch, looks as though the black eye was really his fault.

HIGH COURT TO LEGION BACKS RAP PRECEDENT HOLIDAY PLAN

Supreme Bench Appears Headed Toward Full Change In Attitude

and Justice Stone, brought sharp protest from Justice Roberts and Chief Justice Hughes, both of whom have adopted a liberal attitude in consideration of much new deal legislation.

The court ruled that the Bethlehem shipbuilding corporation could be sued in federal court in New York, even though it is not located in that state, because it had named an agent who was qualified under New York law to accept service. The point had been argued for many years in legal circles. It involved interpretation of the judicial code of 1887.

The court at one time accepted the doctrine of Justice Frankfurter. It later adopted a different attitude on the ground that congress had changed the law in 1887. Justice Frankfurter, however, found this change of no importance.

The court, before Justice Brandeis retired, swept aside a century of precedents to hold that state law must be applied in certain federal cases. With many of the old rulings of past courts being challenged, court observers expect the new supreme court to sweep aside precedents and chart new paths.

CHURCH HEADS OFFER THANKS

Nation Told Of Advantage Held By America Over Rest Of World

America as a nation enjoys the blessing of outward peace, that we have been preserved during this year from the blight of war that has laid its heavy hand upon many nations of the earth.

The serious thought that should come to all Americans as we give thanks for this mercy is that such a blessing carries with it a corresponding obligation. "To whom much is given, of him shall much be required." If we are outwardly the most favored nation on the earth today, our recognition of that fact should make us also the most highly responsible nation on the face of the earth for its common welfare.

The spirit in which we can best observe Thanksgiving Day this year is not that of thanking God that we are not as other men are. We have uncommon reason for rejoicing as a nation and giving thanks for our outward peace, but as has been said, "we have also uncommon opportunity and obligation to give other peoples inward reason for thankfulness that they live on the same earth with us."

PROBE STARTS IN TRAIN WRECK FATAL TO ONE

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—An investigation was under way today into the wreck of a fast North Western railroad passenger train which struck a handcar late yesterday as it approached North Chicago while enroute from Chicago to Menominee, Mich.

The engineer, Harry Anderson of Chicago, was killed. The fireman, Stanley Mack, was badly scalded. Both men were caught in the wreckage of the locomotive when it left the tracks and toppled down an embankment.

In addition to the locomotive, two baggage cars and two coaches bumped along the ties for about half a mile before coming to a stop.

All of the almost 200 passengers escaped injury, although several were severely shaken up.

Four section hands who had been riding the handcar were not hurt.

ASHVILLE THIEF HAS NO FEAR OF WINTRY BREEZES

A thief who appeared in Asheville Wednesday night has no fear of wintry winds. He stole a motorcycle and headed northward out of the village about 11:30.

The motorcycle, a 1938 model, is owned by Arthur and James Valentine of Asheville. The license number is MC 9855.

The motorcycle was stolen from a parking space near the village hall.

Members of the sheriff's department believed it was the first motorcycle theft ever reported in the county.

RIDICULE HEAPED ON SPIES

Henry Stevens, who were captured on the Dutch-German border at Venlo Nov. 9—the day following the bomb blast at Munich that nearly cost Chancellor Hitler's life—were the men who made the radio contact possible, Himmler said.

The newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, Hitler's organ, at the same time charged that Otto Strasser, accused by the Germans as the "spiritual author" of the bomb plot against Hitler, organized two previous bombing attempts, one at the 1936 Olympic games and another at the 1937 Nuremberg party congress.

Both plots were discovered, said the paper, and Strasser's agents were executed.

The newspaper also stated that a plot by Strasser to bomb Hitler and Premier Mussolini at Munich resulted in the arrest and execution of Helmuth Hirsch despite intervention of the American government on grounds that Hirsch's father possessed an expired American passport.

In England, it was charged, Strasser contacted British intelligence officers and organized new plots which resulted in the Munich beer cellar blast.

CATTLE AND HOG PRICES DECLINE ON LAUR MART

NO HOLIDAY FOR MEMBERS OF NATIONAL GUARD

Thursday was no holiday for 63 Circleville men who are members of the National Guard.

The 42 men from Circleville in the Service Battery, 136th Field Artillery, are in Athens providing the necessary supplies for about 800 guardsmen stationed there.

The two officers and 18 men in the Medical Detachment, Special Troops, 37th Division, are in the armory at Ohio State University attending lectures and receiving instructions in first aid work.

Col. Harry D. Jackson of the 112th Medical Regiment, is stationed at the fairgrounds in Columbus.

The Circleville men left the city Wednesday to participate in a five-day training period ordered by the war department.

SAVED FUEL AND AVOIDED FOGGED WINDOWS THIS WAY

Home Owner In Indiana Made 35% Savings On Coal Bill By Using Storm Sash

Freedom from drafts, fogged windows and uneven temperature as well as a saving in his coal bill that last year amounted to 35.2 per cent were some of the reasons Fred F. Fletcher, 4110 Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind., installed storm sash on his seven room house.

"I am satisfied with the results," he says, "I am going to put storm sash in the large windows of my grocery store. I know it will save a lot there and the windows will be free of condensation. People can see in and I'll save on fuel, too."

Save money and get added comfort this winter by equipping your house with storm sash. The Circleville Lumber Co. will call and give you an estimate of the cost. They will also give you a fairly accurate idea of the savings which will result. Call today and learn how you can save money and get added comfort from storm sash in your home. You can finance the entire job through F. H. A. with no down payment.

and Justice Stone, brought sharp protest from Justice Roberts and Chief Justice Hughes, both of whom have adopted a liberal attitude in consideration of much new deal legislation.

The court ruled that the Bethlehem shipbuilding corporation could be sued in federal court in New York, even though it is not located in that state, because it had named an agent who was qualified under New York law to accept service. The point had been argued for many years in legal circles. It involved interpretation of the judicial code of 1887.

The court at one time accepted the doctrine of Justice Frankfurter. It later adopted a different attitude on the ground that congress had changed the law in 1887. Justice Frankfurter, however, found this change of no importance.

The court, before Justice Brandeis retired, swept aside a century of precedents to hold that state law must be applied in certain federal cases. With many of the old rulings of past courts being challenged, court observers expect the new supreme court to sweep aside precedents and chart new paths.

CHURCH HEADS OFFER THANKS

Nation Told Of Advantage Held By America Over Rest Of World

America as a nation enjoys the blessing of outward peace, that we have been preserved during this year from the blight of war that has laid its heavy hand upon many nations of the earth.

The serious thought that should come to all Americans as we give thanks for this mercy is that such a blessing carries with it a corresponding obligation. "To whom much is given, of him shall much be required." If we are outwardly the most favored nation on the earth today, our recognition of that fact should make us also the most highly responsible nation on the face of the earth for its common welfare.

The spirit in which we can best observe Thanksgiving Day this year is not that of thanking God that we are not as other men are. We have uncommon reason for rejoicing as a nation and giving thanks for our outward peace, but as has been said, "we have also uncommon opportunity and obligation to give other peoples inward reason for thankfulness that they live on the same earth with us."

4,000,000 MEN AWAIT ORDERS TO START WAR

Germans, French And English
Listen For Command
To Shoot It Out

LINES STERILIZE STRIFE

Attack By Either Side
Means Certain Bath Of
Blood In West

BERLIN, Nov. 23 — "All quiet on the Western Front" these war days merely means that about four million heavily armed men on both sides of the German and French frontiers are sitting with hands on triggers in underground labyrinths, waiting for the order to shoot it out.

Wags are saying that it's a "sit-down" war with Mahatma Gandhi as chief advisor of the general staffs but the fact is that both the Maginot and Siegfried Lines have sterilized warfare into one of defensive nature where attack against the other side means a certain bloodbath, without tangible results.

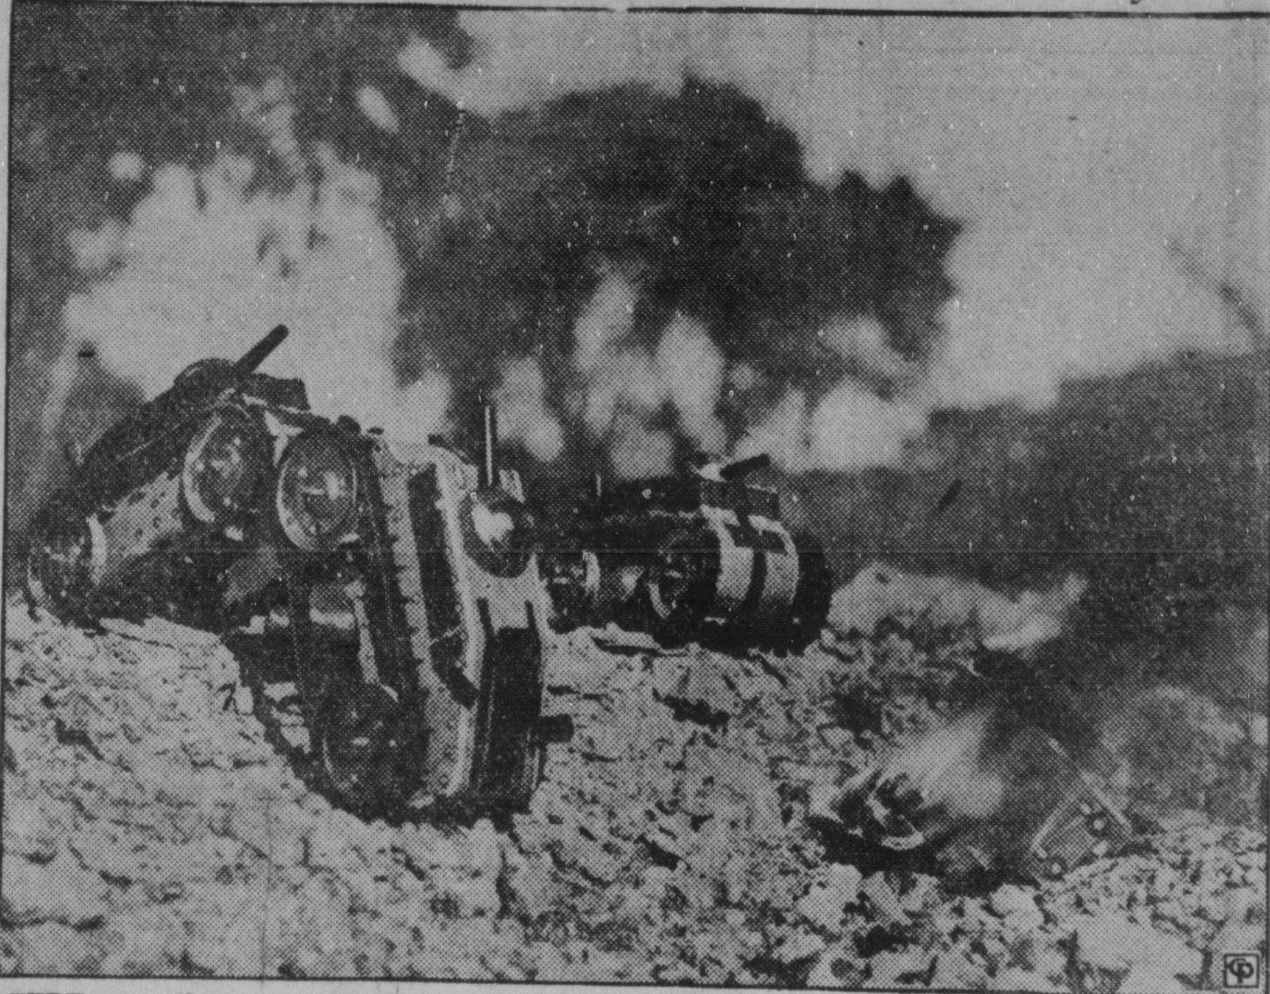

In other words, both sides can let loose from their respective positions with rifles and machine-guns and cause few casualties unless infantry comes out into the open. Both sides can let loose sustained artillery fire and blast to smithereens all railways, towns and visible objects within thirty miles each side of the border but beyond this material destruction nothing will come of it. It will not gain a foot of land for either side and leave only a dead no man's land.

Artillery Fire Restricted
Up to the middle of October, neither side of the Rhine seemed eager to let loose such cannonade. The random artillery fire up to then, as I personally witnessed in a six-day tour of the entire western front, was carefully restricted to open fields or to the vicinity of outlying pillboxes on both sides. A German pillbox in the Saar region, for example, had been the target for about eighty French shells as a testing point and of these two had hit the low-lying turret without causing appreciable damage or disturbance to the occupants.

Taking these eighty artillery shots as a case in point, it can be seen how difficult and almost discouraging it is for an attacking army to prepare its attack. The concentrated World War drumfire of shot and shell which prepared the way for an attack by pummeling the enemy lines for days in advance has been made useless by the modern pillbox usually twelve feet thick from above and six feet thick in its wall strength.

While the shelling is on, the pillbox occupants sit comfortably far below and listen to the radio while observers in strategically placed pillboxes watch the enemy lines through powerful telescopes. Every

LAURELVILLE

By Mrs. Paul Armstrong

The members of the Foreign Missionary Society of the United Brethren Church were entertained, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Edgar Karr.

The meeting was opened by the group singing, "Amazing Grace", prayer by Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh. Twelve members answered roll by repeating verses of scripture. The minutes of the last meeting pillbox, large and small, is connected by telephone through cables laid as deep as forty feet underground so that nothing can disturb the network.

Difficult Targets

"Any artillery man knows how inconceivably difficult it is to hit even a fairly large object at normal distances," a qualified military authority told me. "Imagine, therefore, how helpless it is to hit these small pillboxes hidden so well that the naked eye can hardly discover them at close range."

"The Siegfried Line all in all has, let us say, between 44,000 and 48,000 of these fortified emplacements. The military power or the combination of military power does exist in the world capable of bringing together and financing the cost of sufficient heavy artillery to lay down on these points sustained fire to put enough of them out of commission to permit an attack fairly certain of success."

"Should a dozen here and there be extinguished by shells and air-bombs, another dozen will cover the blank spots with their cross-fire and the attackers merely run into sure death. This is to say nothing of the endless connecting obstacles that must be overcome such as mine fields, tank troops, barbed wire and infantry resistance."

were adby the secretary, Mrs. Mary Strous. Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh and Miss Norma Jean Daugherty were welcomed as new members.

Mrs. Maude Devault had charge of the program and the following gave topics, Mrs. O. W. Stockman, Mrs. Ruby Drum, Mrs. Hattie Karr, and Mrs. Dartha Harmon. Misses Mary, Martha Mae and Annabell Strous, Miss Gertrude Bigham. The meeting closed with the benediction.

The members of the United Brethren Ladies Aid Society were entertained, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dartha Harmon, on Sherman Street.

The president, Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh, led the devotionals, song, "There is Sunshine in My Soul", prayer by Mrs. Martha Ebert, song, "He Leadeth Me" and for the scripture lesson the 116th chapter of Revelations was read. The members responded to roll call with verses of scripture. After the short business session the meeting closed with the benediction.

The December meeting of the U. B. Missionary Society and Ladies Aid Society will be held jointly with an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Lily DeLong.

The Fathers' and Sons' of the U. B. Church conducted the Sunday School Sunday morning. Harley Jinks was superintendent and Wayne Jones, secretary.

The special features of the service was the vocal duet, "That Silver Haired Daddy of Mine" by Charles Reynolds, Jr. and Jesse Wharton" readings were given by Donald Swackhammer, Denver Drum, Edgar Karr, and Harley Jinks, and Wayne Jones and Jesse Wharton played several selections on their violin and guitar.

Paul Stockman gave a reading in the evening service.

DISEASE KILLS MORE MEN THAN GUNS OF WAR

Nature Ready To Aid World
When It Sets Out To
Destroy Itself

STATISTICS ARE CITED

Germans Killed 58,119 U. S.
Soldiers; World War
Powder Killed 50,385

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—When man sets out to destroy himself, nature stands cynically ready to help him.

Her weapons, disease germs, are small, but more deadly and destructive than all the engines of war man has yet devised.

Thus today the American Medical Journal summed up a fact and a prediction: when wars come, more die of resultant diseases than from wounds; it will be the same in this war.

"The assembling of great masses of men under conditions in which sanitation is difficult if not impossible, and the movement of great numbers of men across wide areas of country, invariably mean the spread of disease," the Journal, edited by Dr. Morris Fishbein, said editorially.

"The louse that spreads typhus fever, the rats concerned with plague, and many another insect and animal carrier of disease still exist, ready to demonstrate, when the favorable opportunity comes, that man is but a morsel in the great cosmic scheme and that when he seeks to destroy himself nature stands cynically ready to assist him.

Disease Damage Heavy
"In practically every war for which accurate record is available, disease has always caused more deaths than military maneuvers and engagements. Typhus, plague, cholera, typhoid, dysentery, pneumonia and influenza do more damage under military conditions than can be brought about by dynamite, torpedoes, gunpowder and poison gas.

"As Dr. Hans Zinsser has said, 'Epidemics get the blame for defeat; generals the credit for victory. It ought to be the other way around.'

"In many a great war in the past, epidemic has come to terminate the conflict. According to Lieut. Col. Nelson Mercer, the Persians under Xerxes were defeated in their invasion of Greece by a plague of dysentery.

"In 1741 the French captured Prague because of a typhus epidemic among the Austrian defenders, Napoleon's campaign failed in Russia because of typhoid, typhus and pneumonia. In the Mexican war of 1846-47, 100,000 soldiers went to Mexico; of these, 10,986 died of typhoid, dysentery, smallpox, malaria and tropical diseases—only 1,549 were killed or died of wounds.

"In the Civil War, the Union army lost approximately 200,000 men by disease and 112,000 by battle wounds.

"The records of the Spanish-American and the World Wars are so recent that they linger in the memories of many of us. In the Spanish-American War deaths of American troops in battle were 379, but 4,795 died from disease, more of them never reaching Cuba.

"During the World War, Mercer pointed out that our losses were 58,119 from disease and 50,385 killed or died of battle wounds."

Pandemic influenza, which swept the world in 1918, was largely responsible for the high percentage of disease deaths in the World War, as typhoid to a considerable extent had been brought under control, the editorial continued.

Influenza Outlook
Regarding influenza, the Journal said studies of the 1918 epidemic made it apparent that there was a periodicity about such outbreaks, and that another deadly siege of the disease might be expected "in 25 or 30 years (from 1918)."

"Recently, Dr. Thomas M. Rivers of the Rockefeller Institute told the Congress in Microbiology in New York that another outbreak of influenza may well be expected in association with the present war," the editorial warned.

As yet, no effective weapon with which to combat influenza has been developed.

MAIL BY RADIO

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Although the third Byrd Antarctic expedition will be thousands of miles away its members will not be without mail from home. A 100-kilowatt short wave transmitter here will send letters and messages from friends and relatives. This radio mailbag service to Admiral Byrd and his men will begin Dec. 8 and continue every two weeks until the expedition returns.

WAR FASHIONS

LONDON — War has not stopped the progress of women's fashions. Belts with identity discs which also act as fasteners, gold-plated wire belts with the name and address of the wearer on the front and necklaces on the same style have been introduced. A day-time suit which can be changed into an evening dress in a few seconds is another idea.

4,000,000 MEN AWAIT ORDERS TO START WAR

Germans, French And English
Listen For Command
To Shoot It Out

LINES STERILIZE STRIFE

Attack By Either Side
Means Certain Bath Of
Blood In West

BERLIN, Nov. 23 — "All quiet on the Western Front" these war days merely means that about four million heavily armed men on both sides of the German and French frontiers are sitting with hands on triggers in underground labyrinths, waiting for the order to shoot it out.

Wags are saying that it's a "sit-down" war with Mahatma Gandhi as chief advisor of the general staffs but the fact is that both the Maginot and Siegfried Lines have sterilized warfare into one of defensive nature where attack against the other side means a certain bloodbath without tangible results.

In other words, both sides can let loose from their respective positions with rifles and machine-guns and cause few casualties unless infantry comes out into the open. Both sides can let loose sustained artillery fire and blast to smithereens all railways, towns and visible objects within thirty miles each side of the border but beyond this material destruction nothing will come of it. It will not gain a foot of land for either side and leave only a dead man's land.

Artillery Fire Restricted

Up to the middle of October, neither side of the Rhine seemed eager to let loose such cannonade. The random artillery fire up to then, as I personally witnessed in a six-day tour of the entire western front, was carefully restricted to open fields or to the vicinity of outlying pillboxes on both sides. A German pillbox in the Saar region, for example, had been the target for about eighty French shells as a testing point and of these two had hit the low-lying turret without causing appreciable damage or disturbance to the occupants.

Taking these eighty artillery shots as a case in point, it can be seen how difficult and almost discouraging it is for an attacking army to prepare its attack. The concentrated World War drumfire of shot and shell which prepared the way for an attack by punneling the enemy lines for days in advance has been made useless by the modern pillbox usually twelve feet thick from above and six feet thick in its wall strength.

While the shelling is on, the pill-box occupants sit comfortably far below and listen to the radio while observers in strategically placed pillboxes watch the enemy lines through powerful telescopes. Every

LAURELVILLE

By Mrs. Paul Armstrong

The members of the Foreign Missionary Society of the United Brethren Church were entertained, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Edgar Karr.

The meeting was opened by the group singing, "Amazing Grace," prayer by Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh. Twelve members answered roll by repeating verses of scripture. The minutes of the last meeting pillbox, large and small, is connected by telephone through cables laid as deep as forty feet underground so that nothing can disturb the network.

Difficult Targets

"Any artillery man knows how inconceivably difficult it is to hit even a fairly large object at normal distances," a qualified military authority told me. "Imagine, therefore, how helpless it is to hit these small pillboxes hidden so well that the naked eye can hardly discover them at close range."

"The Siegfried Line all in all has, let us say, between 44,000 and 48,000 of these fortified emplacements. The military power or the combination of military power does exist in the world capable of bringing together and financing the cost of sufficient heavy artillery to lay down on these points sustained fire to put enough of them out of commission to permit an attack fairly certain of success."

"Should a dozen here and there be extinguished by shells and air-bombs, another dozen will cover the blank spots with their cross-fire and the attackers merely run into sure death. This is to say nothing of the endless connecting obstacles that must be overcome such as mine fields, tank troops, barbed wire and infantry resistance."

were adby the secretary, Mrs. Mary Strous. Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh and Miss Norma Jean Daugherty were welcomed as new members.

Mrs. Maude Devault had charge of the program and the following gave topics, Mrs. O. W. Stockman, Mrs. Ruby Drum, Mrs. Hattie Karr, and Mrs. Dartha Harmon. Misses Mary, Martha Mae and Annabell Strous, Miss Gertrude Bigham. The meeting closed with the benediction.

The members of the United Brethren Ladies Aid Society were entertained, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dartha Harmon, on Sherman Street.

The president, Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh, led the devotionals, song, "There is Sunshine in My Soul," prayer by Mrs. Martha Ebert, song, "He Leadeth Me" and for the scripture lesson the 116th chapter of Revelations was read. The members responded to roll call with verses of scripture. After the short business session the meeting closed with the benediction.

The December meeting of the U. B. Missionary Society and Ladies Aid Society will be held jointly with an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Lily DeLong.

The Fathers' and Sons' of the U. B. Church conducted the Sunday School Sunday morning. Harley Jinks was superintendent and Wayne Jones, secretary.

The special features of the service was the vocal duet, "That Silver Haired Daddy of Mine" by Charles Reynolds, Jr. and Jesse Wharton. Readings were given by Donald Swackhammer, Denver Drum, Edgar Karr, and Harley Jinks, and Wayne Jones and Jesse Wharton played several selections on their violin and guitar.

Paul Stockman gave a reading in the evening service.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Steel entertained the members of their family with a dinner Sunday in honor of the 79th birthday of the former and the first birthday of their great granddaughter, Laura Louise Rose, which occur November 20. Seated around the tables were Mr. and Mrs. Merle Dearth, Robert Strawser of near Centralia, Mrs. Maude Dent of Adelphi, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Rose and daughter, Mary Ellen, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rose, Miss Edith Strawser and the hosts and the honor guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wolf entertained Sunday the members of their family with a dinner in honor of the latter's 80th birthday at their home on Laurel Street. Members of the family present were Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Wolf and daughters, Martha Rose and Mary June, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hedges, Walter Hedges and Ward Wolf.

Mrs. Ray Poling was taken to Cherrington Hospital, Logan for observation, Monday.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Scott, pastor of the M. E. Adelphi Parish for two years, and children, Billy, Joan and Craig will leave the last of November to take up his new duties, as minister at the Fletcher Memorial Community Center near McColl, South Carolina.

DISEASE KILLS MORE MEN THAN GUNS OF WAR

Nature Ready To Aid World
When It Sets Out To
Destroy Itself

STATISTICS ARE CITED

Germans Killed 58,119 U. S.
Soldiers; World War
Powder Killed 50,385

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—When man sets out to destroy himself, nature stands cynically ready to help him.

Her weapons, disease germs, are small, but more deadly and destructive than all the engines of war man has yet devised.

Thus today the American Medical Journal summed up a fact and a prediction: when wars come, more die of resultant diseases than from wounds; it will be the same in this war.

"The assembling of great masses of men under conditions in which sanitation is difficult if not impossible, and the movement of great numbers of men across wide areas of country, invariably mean the spread of disease," the Journal, edited by Dr. Morris Fishbein, said editorially.

"The louse that spreads typhus fever, the rats concerned with plague, and many another insect and animal carrier of disease still exist, ready to demonstrate, when the favorable opportunity comes, that man is but a morsel in the great cosmic scheme and that when he seeks to destroy himself nature stands cynically ready to assist him.

Disease Damage Heavy

"In practically every war for which accurate record is available, disease has always caused more deaths than military maneuvers and engagements. Typhus, plague, cholera, typhoid, dysentery, pneumonia and influenza do more damage under military conditions than can be brought about by dynamite, torpedoes, gunpowder and poison gas.

"As Dr. Hans Zinsser has said, 'Epidemics get the blame for defeat; generals the credit for victory. It ought to be the other way around.'

"In many a great war in the past, epidemic has come to terminate the conflict. According to Lieut. Col. Nelson Mercer, the Persians under Xerxes were defeated in their invasion of Greece by a plague of dysentery.

"In 1741 the French captured Prague because of a typhus epidemic among the Austrian defenders, Napoleon's campaign failed in Russia because of typhoid, typhus and pneumonia. In the Mexican war of 1846-47, 100,000 soldiers went to Mexico; of these, 10,986 died of typhoid, dysentery, smallpox, malaria and tropical diseases—only 1,549 were killed or died of wounds.

"In the Civil War, the Union army lost approximately 200,000 men by disease and 112,000 by battle wounds.

"The records of the Spanish-American and the World Wars are so recent that they linger in the memories of many of us. In the Spanish-American War deaths of American troops in battle were 379, but 4,795 died from disease, more of them never reaching Cuba.

"During the World War, Mercer pointed out that our losses were 58,119 from disease and 50,385 killed or died of battle wounds."

Pandemic influenza, which swept the world in 1918, was largely responsible for the high percentage of disease deaths in the World War, as typhoid to a considerable extent had been brought under control, the editorial continued.

Influenza Outlook

Regarding influenza, the Journal said studies of the 1918 epidemic made it apparent that there was a periodicity about such outbreaks, and that another deadly siege of the disease might be expected "in 25 or 30 years (from 1918)."

"Recently, Dr. Thomas M. Rivers of the Rockefeller Institute told the Congress in Microbiology in New York that another outbreak of influenza may well be expected in association with the present war," the editorial warned.

As yet, no effective weapon with which to combat influenza has been developed.

MAIL BY RADIO

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Although the third Byrd Antarctic expedition will be thousands of miles away its members will not be without mail from home. A 100-kilowatt short wave transmitter here will send letters and messages from friends and relatives. This radio mailbag service to Admiral Byrd and his men will begin Dec. 8 and continue every two weeks until the expedition returns.

WAR FASHIONS

LONDON — War has not stopped the progress of women's fashions. Belts with identity discs which also act as fasteners, gold-plated wire belts with the name and address of the wearer on the front and necklaces on the same style have been introduced. A day-time suit which can be changed into an evening dress in a few seconds is another idea.

LITANY OF THANKS

It is a wholesome practice, at Thanksgiving time, to have a little list—or a big list if you like—of things to be thankful for. Here are a few suggestions for a starter. You can make a sort of litany of it.

We are thankful above all else for peace.

We are thankful for business recovery.

We are thankful for a respite from politics.

We are thankful for fine weather.

We are thankful that we have no "blackouts" in our cities and villages.

We are thankful for sleep without terror.

We are thankful for our churches and schools and libraries.

We are thankful for our freedom.

We are thankful for our fine cities.

We are thankful for our families.

We are thankful for our friends.

(You can carry this on as far as you like.)

DARK CITIES

AN English weekly says that the British people are "losing more lives on their own streets than on the battlefield." This is partly because there has not been much real fighting at the British front, but the rising toll of casualties on British streets and highways is a serious matter.

It comes from the "blackouts" which now keep the streets so dark that walking at night is difficult and driving is very hazardous. Masked lights of low power and colored lights of slight visibility are used for pedestrians and vehicles. The dimness seems to have been overdone. People are always bumping into each other and motor cars are always in danger of bumping into other cars, or pedestrians. So there is a cry going up for "more light."

This situation prevails throughout the British Isles. And Americans are apt to overlook the fact that it also prevails over nearly all western Europe. This is a new "Dark Age", and the darkness is deeper than it was in medieval times, when people who could afford it went about at night carrying smoky torches.

American cities, large and small, blazing with lights and free from fear, make a great contrast. Here is a wonderful blessing to be thankful for.

However Fritz Kuhn's curious embezzlement trial turns out, that particular fuehrer won't do much fuehring in this country from now on.

Any girl could have glass slippers now, with this new woven glass, but where are the Cinderellas?

There's an old saying that "an army travels on its stomach," and a civilian population supports an army in the same way.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up wondering about Thanksgiving and how many folk really will be thankful. I think all of us should be, but many of us will not. And those who won't just won't, and that's that. Turkey will be on my table and I will not be able to eat it. Now, who among those with a real appetite and no turkey would trade places permanently with me? It is a deal if it can be arranged. Yet, I am thankful to be able to have turkey anyway, but would be much happier to be able to eat it even if I could not get it.

Long years ago on Thanksgiving Day the Crists, Glicks and Criders gathered at the Stanley Glick farm for their annual dinner. All throw into the pot for that day, the women prepared the meal and the men hunt. David Glick was not quite five years old, but he wished to go hunting with the men. Of course, they would not take him. Wallace, Stanley and Sennet marched off to the fields with their guns. David played around the yard for a while, finally found a broom, shouldered it as a play gun and marched off hunting. After a time he returned and, surprise of surprises, he was carrying a rabbit. Had found it under a bush, sneaked up on it and walked it right out of being with the broom. As the story was told to me Sennet returned that afternoon without a single rabbit and mumbled to himself every time he looked at the kid.

J. A. Wallace was looking through some of his effects and found a medal presented to him at the Ohio State Fair for riding the cantering horse, "Pat." The date on the medal is 1897. That is a lot of years ago.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

REPUBLICANS TO DEMAND PROBE

WASHINGTON—Republican strategists are planning a national defense surprise of their own when Congress re-assembles in January. They are going to demand an investigation of the management of the Army and Navy.

There is plenty of ammunition to justify this. While billions are being poured out to build up national defense, the command of the two defense services is mired in welters of bureaucracy, antiquated methods and personal jealousies.

The Republicans plan to probe Roosevelt's continued failure to give the Navy a definite head, the cat-and-dog fight in the War Department, and the sensational disclosures regarding the newly built top-heavy destroyers.

The Republicans privately calculate that they can kill two birds with one shot.

First, they aim to force an urgently needed revitalization of the Army and Navy's commands—both civilian and military. Second, they hope to emphasize the Republican contention that the New Deal can't run the government competently and a change is needed.

VICTIM

For Assistant Secretary Charles Edison, overworked acting head of the Navy, there is bitter irony in all this. A Navy probe, with its certain revelations of obstructive bureaucracy and resistance to modernization, may cost him his well-deserved chance to be made a full member of the cabinet.

Edison has striven to cut through red tape and weed out antiquated practices and brasshats, but the job is too much for one man and he has worked himself near collapse trying to cope with it. Despite his blamelessness, the splatter of disclosures is sure to fall on his head.

Why Roosevelt has not named Edison, or someone else, to the long vacant Secretaryship remains a mystery. Best inside explanation is that the President enjoys being his own Secretary of the Navy.

SUPREME COURT ROMEO

To the casual observer, Justice James Clark McReynolds seems to keep his health despite 78 summers. However, those who saw him with lovely Mrs. Lionel Atwill think he has lost his punch.

Mrs. Atwill returned from Hollywood to Washington recently, causing friends to reminisce about the days when, as Louise Brooks and later as Mrs. Douglas McArthur, she was the most popular woman in Washington. One of her great admirers was General John Pershing, her constant escort at social functions.

At one of these Justice McReynolds, always with an eye to feminine beauty, planted a lusty kiss publicly on the lips of Walter Lippman seems to have solved a great mystery. He figures out that Roosevelt doesn't really want a third term, but wants to be able to refuse it.

If people don't look out, we may wake up one of these days and find we've run into another business boom.

The railroads are "changing from a famine to a feast", as Senator Wheeler says, and nobody minds their smoke.

Drinking Glass Spreads Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IS THE idea, once prevalent, that the common drinking glass spreads disease still held by public health officers?

It is and very intensive campaigns to insure cleanliness of drinking glasses used at soda fountains and in saloons is being carried out in many states.

"Prohibition of the unsanitized utensil in public places," says Dr. Harold J. Knapp, "especially eating and drinking establishments, is one of the most effective safeguards by means of which an official health agency can protect its citizenry against the hazards of certain communicable diseases. Other essentials are employees free from disease, and a sanitary environment for their endeavors."

The inspectors do not have to use bacteriological apparatus to determine the efficiency with which glasses are cleaned. They use swabs, soap, chemicals and occasionally a microscope. A sanitary environment for the employee is a self-evident necessity since the dirty, ill-kept establishment encourages slovenly practices in the employee. A well-kept, scrupulously-clean eating- or drinking place not only stimulates employees to good food-handling practices, but also encourages patronage.

Mechanical devices and chemical products, however, are not substitutes for the common sense application of long-known principles of cleansing procedures, such as adequate and safe hot and cold water supplies, ample detergents and a willingness on the part of the employees to expend physical energy.

makes a nurse fall in love with her patient, and vice versa?

The idea haunts jealous wives when hubby is sick, but the verses of my friend, C. M. C., should dispel all fears:

"Fear not the young nurse who stands by the side
Of your man, when he's sick and in pain,
For after a siege with his grunts and his groans,
She'll give him up gladly again.

To her, he's a bulk to be freed of its pain,
Just a means for her own daily bread.

He gets egg on his sheet, and toast in his hair
And his feet dangle out of his bed."

Treatment of Sties

What treatment is used for sties? Sties are small boils forming around the hair follicles of the eyelashes. They tend to occur when there is astigmatism or badly-fitting glasses. Why, it is hard to explain, but it is probably because the eyelids itch then, and rubbing with the fingers brings infection to the edges of the eyelids. Rubbing of any kind on sties is bad business, so that the ancient practice of rubbing with the wedding ring out. Application of cold or heat, until the sty comes to a head, is best. Recurrent sties are usually caused by rubbing. Prevention of recurrent sties is to paint lightly, with a camel's hair brush, a 10 per cent solution of alcohol along the edge of the eyelids.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.
YESTERDAY: After her mother sails for Europe, Fabienne moves to a hotel and begins her work at Willoughby house. Ellen Chapman takes an interest in her, invites her to supper.

CHAPTER SIX

FABIENNE SEYMOUR counted her friends by the score. There were the girls who'd gone to Bearly with her, and the girls who came out the same time she did. And there was the hunting crowd from Maryland and all the people she'd met at the various places where she'd been holidaying during the last five years—Paris and St. Moritz, San Francisco, Banff, Palm Beach and, of course, the tremendous number who made up that small world of young New York society. And yet, she thought as she waited for a traffic light to change on Fifth avenue at one o'clock in the morning, she never had been able to talk to one of them for more than the time it took to eat luncheon.

And here she was coming home from Ellen Chapman's after talking for five hours and thinking that the evening was still young.

Well, Ellen was interesting. Talking to her was like looking into a book and reading about characters she had never met. Goodness knows, Ellen would never fit into Fabienne's set, or sets.

To begin with, she didn't look like anything. She had ordinary dark hair, ordinary dark eyes, good enough features and a rather sweet, grave expression, but she threw them away, in Fabienne's opinion. If she had a good hair dresser and used a little more makeup—

The traffic light changed and Fabienne put her car in gear. It started with a jerk and had the effect of temporarily switching its driver's thoughts.

But later, after she had given the keys to the doorman at her hotel and told him to have the car take away and returned at eight, her thoughts returned to the girl she had left.

It had been difficult to get Ellen to tell her her story, and her answers had been simply given; but Fabienne had formed a picture. Graduated from college at twenty-two, Ellen had gone into Henderson house, as Willoughby house had been known. She had been there for five years—yet she looked no older than Fabienne—and during that time she had become director with the death of Mrs. Jennings, its original organizer. Apparently since then, there had been nothing else in her life.

Suddenly Fabienne remembered the way the girl's face had looked, flushed and pretty and alive, when she came back from the telephone. "Bill!" Fabienne said to herself. "I must find out about Bill. All the girls she knew talked about this beauty. She'd get Ellen to."

Ellen was not an easy person to get to know. She was friendly and charming. She sincerely liked Fabienne and told her that she thought she had built up a hard protective shell against the real person she was. Fabienne laughed that off. She was surprised to find that Ellen was such an idealist.

Fabienne had no illusions about herself. She knew that she was doing good work at the settlement house as the first month slipped into the second, and the second into the third. But she knew it was good only because she would not do anything badly. Not because she liked the work. It was just as tiresome to her as she progressed from one job to another as it had been that first week.

The one pleasure she did get out of it was her friendship with Ellen. Ellen intrigued her the way that a man who did not fall at her feet would intrigue her. Ellen apparently wanted nothing of her, liked her but had no envy of her, paid her no tribute except in her work, and never offered any return confidence for the confidences that Fabienne found herself giving her. Funny girl, Ellen.

"There," said Fabienne at last, "give Bill an eyeful of that."

She asked Fabienne for tea one Sunday afternoon. Tea with just one other girl would have been an idea too impossible for Fabienne to consider three months ago. But that November afternoon the idea was most appealing.

She said, "I could eat plates of toast, but don't let me. I'm going to a buffet supper at six."

"May I ride up with you, Fabienne?" I'm going to meet Bill. He's working until eight and then we're meeting at Carnegie hall."

Ellen wore an evening dress that looked as if she had bought it at one of the neighborhood rummage sales. Fabienne couldn't bear it. She said, "Ellen, I don't know what your Bill is like, but unless he's blind, you can't wear that. Get me a needle and let me do something about fitting it."

It was much better when Fabienne got through with it. In fact, it was surprisingly chic. It was made of flame colored taffeta that brought out the dusky lights in Ellen's hair. Fabienne frowned over the hair until Ellen sighed and said, "All right, see what you can do with it."

It was shoulder length and beautifully easy to wave. Fabienne toyed with it as if Ellen were a doll. "There," she said, at last, "Give Bill an eyeful of that . . . and I'll tell you what I'll do. We'll stop at my hotel and I'll lend you my little sable wrap."

Ellen shook her head. She said, "That's sweet of you, but it would be wasted on Bill. He wouldn't appreciate borrowed finery."

"Fiddlesticks! What kind of a person is he? Doesn't he want his best girl to look smart?"

Ellen busied herself with a bracelet clasp. "I never asked him," she said. "Besides, he's a very busy young man."

"Can't he think of anything better to do than to take you to hear choral singers who you look like you do now? Get him to take you dancing."

"Bill's interested in these singers. He earns extra money singing in a church choir himself."

"Oh," Fabienne said. She could picture Bill, an earnest young man with hair that fell untidy over his forehead. He'd undoubtedly have a prominent Adam's apple above the slipping tie that went with his dinner jacket. No, Bill wouldn't appreciate her sable wrap.

"Anyway, choir singer or not, I bet he tells you you're awfully pretty tonight."

"You don't know Bill," Ellen said.

Fabienne was rather glad that Ellen hadn't borrowed her coat. Ken Hemingway rang her up to say that they were dressing for the Hunters' party. "We're going to the horse show after supper. Got to look pretty for the newspaper photographers, honey," Ken said.

"I'm not a socialite any more, Ken. I'm a hard-working social worker. Does it matter what I wear?"

"I don't know. Will you want white or plain purple orchids?"

"White and six of them, please," she said laughing.

So he sent her six white orchids and she was wearing them on her sable collar and laughing up into his face when the photographer from the tabloid The Daily Journal snapped her picture.

"I'm not a socialite," she told him.

"She's a social service worker, boy," Ken added. "The main prop of Willoughby house."

The picture appeared on the back cover of the tabloid the next day. Under it was the legend:

DEBUTANTE DESERTS SOCIAL WORLD FOR SETTLEMENT HOUSE

Fabienne Seymour, daughter of the Countess de Ligne and the late Carl Seymour of the Maryland hunting Seymours, defies convention by becoming one of the directors of Willoughby house. It was this settlement house that received part of the large legacy left to charity by the late Ellen Willoughby at the expense of his heirs, of which Fabienne is one.

Fabienne saw the paper the next day. "I'm so sorry," she told Ellen. "I didn't tell them I was a director."

"It won't do any harm," Ellen said.

Ellen didn't think anyone would see it when she dropped it in the waste basket. One of the little Tormassino boys, who had given Fabienne his nine-year-old heart, cut it out of the paper and showed it to everyone who came into his crippled little world.

LITANY OF THANKS

It is a wholesome practice, at Thanksgiving time, to have a little list—or a big list if you like—of things to be thankful for. Here are a few suggestions for a starter. You can make a sort of litany of it.

We are thankful above all else for peace.

We are thankful for business recovery.

We are thankful for a respite from politics.

We are thankful for fine weather.

We are thankful that we have no "blackouts" in our cities and villages.

We are thankful for sleep without terror.

We are thankful for our churches and schools and libraries.

We are thankful for our freedom.

We are thankful for our fine cities.

We are thankful for our families.

We are thankful for our friends.
(You can carry this on as far as you like.)

DARK CITIES

AN English weekly says that the British people are "losing more lives on their own streets than on the battlefield." This is partly because there has not been much real fighting at the British front, but the rising toll of casualties on British streets and highways is a serious matter.

It comes from the "blackouts" which now keep the streets so dark that walking at night is difficult and driving is very hazardous. Masked lights of low power and colored lights of slight visibility are used for pedestrians and vehicles. The dimness seems to have been overdone. People are always bumping into each other and motor cars are always in danger of bumping into other cars, or pedestrians. So there is a cry going up for "more light." This situation prevails throughout the British Isles. And Americans are apt to overlook the fact that it also prevails over nearly all western Europe. This is a new "Dark Age", and the darkness is deeper than it was in medieval times, when people who could afford it went about at night carrying smoky torches.

American cities, large and small, blazing with lights and free from fear, make a great contrast. Here is a wonderful blessing to be thankful for.

However Fritz Kuhn's curious embezzlement trial turns out, that particular fuehrer won't do much fuehring in this country from now on.

Any girl could have glass slippers now, with this new woven glass, but where are the Cinderellas?

There's an old saying that "an army travels on its stomach," and a civilian population supports an army in the same way.

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up wondering about Thanksgiving and how many folk really will be thankful. I think all of us should be, but many of us will not. And those who won't just won't, and that's that. Turkey will be on my table and I will not be able to eat it. Now, who among those with a real appetite and no turkey would trade places permanently with me? It is a deal if it can be arranged. Yet, I am thankful to be able to have turkey anyway, but would be much happier to be able to eat it even if I could not get it.

Long years ago on Thanksgiving Day the Crists, Glucks and Criders gathered at the Stanley Glick farm for their annual dinner. All throw into the pot for that day, the women prepared the meal and the men hunt. David Glick was not quite five years old, but he wished to go hunting with the men. Of course, they would not take him. Wallace, Stanley and Sennet marched off to the fields with their guns. David played around the yard for a while, finally found a broom, shouldered it as a play gun and marched off hunting. After a time he returned and, surprise of surprises, he was carrying a rabbit. Had found it under a bush, sneaked up on it and walloped it right out of being with the broom. As the story was told to me Sennet returned that afternoon without a single rabbit and mumbled to himself every time he looked at the kid.

J. A. Wallace was looking through some of his effects and found a medal presented to him at the Ohio State Fair for riding the cantering horse, "Pat." The date on the medal is 1897. That is a lot of years ago.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

REPUBLICANS TO DEMAND PROBE

WASHINGTON—Republican strategists are planning a national defense surprise of their own when Congress re-assembles in January. They are going to demand an investigation of the management of the Army and Navy.

There is plenty of ammunition to justify this. While billions are being poured out to build up national defense, the command of the two defense services is mired in welters of bureaucracy, antiquated methods and personal jealousies.

The Republicans plan to probe Roosevelt's continued failure to give the Navy a definite head, the cat-and-dog fight in the War Department, and the sensational disclosures regarding the newly built top-heavy destroyers.

The Republicans privately calculate that they can kill two birds with one shot.

First, they aim to force an urgently needed revitalization of the Army and Navy's commands—both civilian and military. Second, they hope to emphasize the Republican contention that the New Deal can't run the government competently and a change is needed.

VICTIM

For Assistant Secretary Charles Edison, overworked acting head of the Navy, there is bitter irony in all this. A Navy probe, with its certain revelations of obstructive bureaucracy and resistance to modernization, may cost him his well-deserved chance to be made a full member of the cabinet.

Edison has striven to cut through red tape and weed out antiquated practices and brasshats, but the job is too much for one man and he has worked himself near collapse trying to cope with it. Despite his blamelessness, the splatter of disclosures is sure to fall on his head.

Why Roosevelt has not named Edison, or someone else, to the long vacant Secretaryship remains a mystery. Best inside explanation is that the President enjoys being his own Secretary of the Navy.

SUPREME COURT ROMEO

To the casual observer, Justice James Clark McReynolds seems to keep his health despite 78 summers. However, those who saw him with lovely Mrs. Lionel Atwill think he has lost his punch.

Mrs. Atwill returned from Hollywood to Washington recently, causing friends to reminisce about the days when, as Louise Brooks and later as Mrs. Douglas McArthur, she was the most popular woman in Washington. One of her great admirers was General John Pershing, her constant escort at social functions.

At one of these Justice McReynolds, always with an eye to feminine beauty, planted a lusty kiss publicly on the lips of

Walter Lipman seems to have solved a great mystery. He figures out that Roosevelt doesn't really want a third term, but wants to be able to refuse it.

If people don't look out, we may wake up one of those days and find we've run into another business boom.

The railroads are "changing from a famine to a feast", as Senator Wheeler says, and nobody minds their smoke.

Drinking Glass Spreads Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IS THE idea, once prevalent, that the common drinking glass spreads disease still held by public health officers?

It is and very intensive campaigns to insure cleanliness of drinking glasses used at soda fountains and in saloons is being carried out in many states.

"Prohibition of the unsanitized utensil in public places," says Dr. Harold J. Knapp, "especially eating and drinking establishments, is one of the most effective safeguards by means of which an official health agency can protect its citizenry against the hazards of certain communicable diseases. Other essentials are employees free from disease, and a sanitary environment for their endeavors."

The inspectors do not have to use bacteriological apparatus to determine the efficiency with which glasses are cleaned. They use swabs, soap, chemicals and occasionally a microscope. A sanitary environment for the employee is a self-evident necessity since the dirty, ill-kept establishment encourages slovenly practices in the employee. A well-kept, scrupulously-clean eating-or-drinking place not only stimulates employees to good food-handling practice, but also encourages patronage.

Mechanical devices and chemical products, however, are not substitutes for the common sense application of long-known principles of cleansing procedures, such as adequate and safe hot and cold water supplies, ample detergents and a willingness on the part of the employees to expend physical energy.

Treatment of Sties

What treatment is used for sties? Sties are small boils forming around the hair follicles of the eyelashes. They tend to occur when there is stigmatism or badly-fitting glasses. Why, is hard to explain, but it is probably because the eyelids itch then, and rubbing with the fingers brings infection to the edges of the eyelids. Rubbing of any kind on sties is bad business, so that lets the ancient practice of rubbing with the wedding ring out. Application of cold or heat, until the sty comes to a head, is best. Recurrent sties are usually caused by rubbing. Prevention of recurrent sties is to paint lightly, with a camel's hair brush, a 10 per cent solution of alcohol along the edge of the eyelids.

Today's Horoscope

If you are celebrating your birthday today, you can rely on much good fortune in the year ahead. You should be careful of your correspondents and the signing of documents, however, as some deception threatens you in those matters. A child born today will have a quick mind and be artistic and musical. To offset these desirable qualities, however, such a child will be passionate, somewhat cautious and secretive, and inclined to make others dislike him.

Sorority Dance Opens Local Social Season

Hundred Couples
At Memorial
Hall Event

Social Calendar

The second annual Thanksgiving Dance of the Phi Beta Psi Sorority opened the winter social season in a delightful manner Wednesday, when friends, relatives and college students in Circleville for the holiday season joined with the social set of the community in an evening of gaiety at the Memorial Hall. More than 100 couples were there.

Brilliant autumn foliage and potted ferns decorated the auditorium, a huge basket of chrysanthemums centering the stage where the dance band played sophisticated music between 10 and 1 a. m. On either side of the stage, lifelike cut out figures of a boy and girl called attention to the fact that the dance was a benefit for the Elks Park and Playground fund. Miss Miriam Weaver was responsible for these artistic figures.

Paul Decker and his band furnished dance music to suit the most fastidious, playing sweet and smooth for the pleasure of some, then sending it hot, for the ones who like a little jitterbug. He had a splendid selection of the newest numbers of the better class of dance tunes and also played the best of the older dance music. Mrs. Decker, vocalist, added many choruses in her rich deep contralto voice.

An outstanding feature of the evening was the delightful solo singing to the full orchestra accompaniment by Myron Testament of Columbus, who was a guest at the dance.

The American Legion Auxiliary served light refreshments during the evening.

The two gifts awarded by the sorority, a turkey and a lovely corsage of gardenias, were received by Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Speakman of Circleville.

Lettermen Entertained
Twenty-one members of the Circleville High School football team, all lettermen, were entertained at dinner Wednesday by the Tuxis Club of the Presbyterian Church. The fifty seated at the beautifully decorated tables included 24 Tuxis club members and the five speakers in addition to the honor guests. Dan McClain gave a splendid talk to the group, stressing four points: 1. Determination; 2. Spirit; 3. Sportsmanship; 4. To be well coached. He recognized in his pertinent remarks the good material in the season's team and gave them due credit for the year's performance.

Other talks were made by Harold Smith, honorary captain of the team; Roy Black, the team's coach; Loren Pace, a member of the high school faculty and the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, Tuxis Club leader.

David Eagleson, president of Tuxis Club, welcomed the guests and served as toastmaster.

Red and Black, the high school colors were effectively used in table and hall decorations, the favors at the places using the same color theme.

Mothers of the club members prepared the splendid dinner which was served by Miss Katherine Foreman, Miss Rosemary Jackson, Miss Harriet Harman, Mrs. Kelsey and Miss Betty Lee Nickerson.
The program was arranged by David Eagleson, Bonita Hulise and Mary K. Pile. Jack Goodchild, Robert Kline and Emmett Evans were responsible for the decorations. ## IRISH TO FACE REAL TEST IN SOUTHERN CAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 — Held to close scores by all opponents and beaten by Iowa, the Irish of Notre Dame probably will get their toughest football game of the season next Saturday when they attempt to stop the rush of Southern California's Trojans, who have gone on a rampage since being tied by Oregon in their opening game. In any case, the battle of South Bend is the stand-out of a day on which other spectacles of national import will bring together unbeaten Cornell and Penn's tough team, and Michigan's super-stellar backfield against Ohio State, which can and may clinch the Big Ten title.

The battle of South Bend should be the kind the customers dream about, but seldom see, not that the Irish have picked on any setups in beating Purdue, Georgia Tech, Southern Methodist, Navy, Carnegie Tech, Army and Northwestern, while dropping only the Iowa contest by a single point. Each of the encounters was terrific.

However, the Irish may be meeting the toughest club on their schedule this time. The Trojans have been scored on only twice while running up 132 points and generally are picked to win the coast conference championship and provide the West's half of the competition in the Rose Bowl tussle New Year's Day.

It might be mentioned that the Trojans will get a thorough test, too. They have never met a club like the Notre Dames, who will trot out backs and linemen in carload lots—and keep pouring them in there.

Cornell may be the best team in the nation—and will get an excellent chance to prove it against Penn, which has been good and bad by turns in winning four out of seven, but undoubtedly will be good Saturday. It generally is for this annual renewal of one of those rivalries that goes back into the dark ages. As a matter of fact, Penn was good last week in losing by two points to Michigan's great eleven.

And Michigan will get another good bouncing around on Saturday, win or lose. Beaten in the surprise of the year by Illinois, then by Minnesota, Michigan showed its comeback powers against Penn last week by way of getting set for an Ohio State team that has lost only to Cornell and needs only this Saturday's game to win the Big Ten crown.

DEERCREEK AND PICKAWAY WIN LEAGUE GAMES

Ashville Also Chalks Up Win Over Liberty Union—Games Hard Fought

Deercreek and Pickaway chalked up victories Wednesday night in games in the county basketball league while Ashville defeated Liberty Union in a non-league contest.

Deercreek defeated Saltcreek 38 to 19 in the game played at Tarlton. The junior high game ended 9 to 8 in favor of Deercreek. Deercreek reserves defeated Saltcreek 14 to 9.

Pickaway cagers trounced New Holland 39 to 17 in the game at Pickaway. Pickaway reserves won 17 to 9. The score on the girls' game was New Holland 13, Pickaway 11.

Both the Ashville high and reserves won over Liberty Union teams. The main game ended 44 to 32 and the reserves 39 to 35.

Monroe gave Perry a 41 to 7 beating in a game played Tuesday night at Monroe.

THANK GOD FOR FLAG AND PEACE, PASTOR SAYS

PASTOR GIVES LESSONS ON THANKSGIVING

Thought Of God Always Has Lightened Burdens Of Christmas

EARLY FEASTS RECALLED

Freedom Of Worship, Speech Rights Of Possession Cited For Gathering

"In America we should especially thank God for our flag and for such a government we enjoy. Here we have liberty, justice, freedom of the press, speech, worship and right of possession. We have no war and there is no danger of death from those who do not believe as we do. What a privilege is ours!"

That statement was made Thursday morning by the Rev. C. F. Bowman, pastor of First Methodist Church, in the union Thanksgiving service of Circleville churches held in the United Brethren Church. A union service on Thanksgiving has been a custom in the city for many years. A large crowd was present.

The Rev. Mr. Bowman used as his sermon text "The Lord Hath Done Great Things for Us; Whereof We Are Glad." His theme was taken from the 126th Psalm.

Early Rejoicing

"The 126th Psalm is supposed to have been sung by the Hebrews as they ascended the temple steps upon their return from their captivity," he said. "Their rejoicing was so amazing to the heathen nations that the remark was made 'the Hebrews' God had done great things for them.' They took up the refrain 'The Lord hath done great things for us.' They were made glad and their rejoicing brings us to our lessons on Thanksgiving.

"The followers of God have ever been made to rejoice. In the times of hardships, suffering, depression and war the Christians have been made to think of God and the singing of God's praise.

"There have been many periods of thanksgiving in different times of human experiences. The early Hebrews had their feast of the harvest. We are made to think today of those colonial fathers called Pilgrims. They landed at Plymouth Rock on the bleak New England shores on December 21, 1620. After enduring a terrible winter with sickness, death, bereavements and less than half of their number spared they reached the autumn of 1621 and their first harvest. Recognizing God as the giver of good things, they set a special day for Thanksgiving.

Gratitude and Prayer

"Throughout our national life on special occasions, days have been set for expression of gratitude and prayer. Now this custom is a settled policy and this legal holiday is proclaimed by presidential proclamation."

After recalling the many blessings enjoyed by citizens and pastor asked "Are we guilty of selfish pride." "We are blessed by God not because we are better than others of other nations," he said, "but for the purpose of service." "Here is our challenge. We are to use our strength and our resources in programs for the helplessness of others. While there is so much need in the world we can not eat out of our abundance and fittingly give thanks to God until we have shared with others.

Help For Others

"There is no blessing but calls forth an expression of gratitude. The best expression of gratitude is to give. We are delirious in duty if we permit any to suffer want and perish for want of the common necessities of life. It is a rebuke to us in our modern social structure if we have abundance even to wastefulness in one quarter and in another quarter have human need to the point of suffering. If each should do his part we may be able to make all the sons of humanity rejoice. The world will be filled with happiness and the hearts of men will be glad.

"But there are many who will not give unless great credit is given or they will not serve unless they are praised highly. They want the chief seats at the feast or the prominent place in a field of service.

The invocation was given by the Rev. W. D. Ramsey, pastor of Calvary Evangelical Church; the responsive reading by the Rev. L. C. Sherburne, pastor of St. Philip's Episcopal Church; prayer by the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, and the benediction by the Rev. Albert N. Gruesser, pastor of First United Brethren Church. The collection was given the Home and Hospital.

Dr. G. J. Troutman, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, preached a Thanksgiving sermon Wednesday night. A special anthem was sung by the choir. Carl C. Leist, choir director, sang a solo.

THANK GOD FOR FLAG AND PEACE, PASTOR SAYS

PASTOR GIVES LESSONS ON THANKSGIVING

Thought Of God Always Has Lightened Burdens Of Christmas

EARLY FEASTS RECALLED

Freedom Of Worship, Speech Rights Of Possession Cited For Gathering

"In America we should especially thank God for our flag and for such a government we enjoy. Here we have liberty, justice, freedom of the press, speech, worship and right of possession. We have no war and there is no danger of death from those who do not believe as we do. What a privilege is ours!"

That statement was made Thursday morning by the Rev. C. F. Bowman, pastor of First Methodist Church, in the union Thanksgiving service of Circleville churches held in the United Brethren Church. A union service on Thanksgiving has been a custom in the city for many years. A large crowd was present.

The Rev. Mr. Bowman used as his sermon text "The Lord Hath Done Great Things for Us; Whereof We Are Glad." His theme was taken from the 126th Psalm.

Early Rejoicing

"The 126th Psalm is supposed to have been sung by the Hebrews as they ascended the temple steps upon their return from their captivity," he said. "Their rejoicing was so amazing to the heathen nations that the remark was made 'the Hebrews' God had done great things for them.' They took up the refrain 'The Lord hath done great things for us.' They were made glad and their rejoicing brings us to our lessons on Thanksgiving.

"The followers of God have ever been made to rejoice. In the times of hardships, suffering, depression and war the Christians have been made to think of God and the singing of God's praise.

"There have been many periods of thanksgiving in different times of human experiences. The early Hebrews had their feast of the harvest.
